FLIERS TO AWAIT ENGINE REPAIRS BEFORE RETURN

London to be Visited by Airmen Before Last
Leg Home

ENGINES OVERHAULED

Over Two-thirds of Trip
Around World Now
Completed

(By the Associated Press)
CROYDON, Eng., July 17.—The American army world fliers hopped off this morning for Brough, near Hull, where their planes will rest for a week or 10 days while pontoons are being fitted in preparation for their jump to Orkney islands.

BROUGH, Eng., July 17.—The three American army around the world fliers arrived here from Croydon at 1:08 o'clock this afternoon. The aviators will be afforded every facility for a rapid overhauling of their machines. After a survey has been made if it shows only moderate wear and tear, the work can be completed within three days. Half a dozen planes were in the air when the Americans took off and started on their 150 mile hop. The same American and British officials who yesterday welcomed the fliers to England wished their guests a safe journey. The pilots of the around the world planes will remain at Brough about two days. They will return to London while their machines are being overhauled. The airmen lost no time in taking leave of London, as soon as they left the ground they headed for Brough without maneuvering over the field. The aviators had little trouble in starting although their engines are beginning to show signs of wear. Lieut. Smith, the flight commander is confident everything will be in ship shape about August 1 for the last big jump.

ATTORNEY BRANDS STORY OF YOUTHS

Details of Trial May be Broadcast; Press to be Represented

(By the Associated Press)
CHICAGO, July 17.—Stories that Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, confessed kidnapers and slayers of Robert Franks, had planned to make Leopold's brother their victim has been characterized by the prosecution as without foundation. The prosecution contends that the defense is endeavoring to make the youths appear as diabolical as possible in order to prove the boys are crazy, according to Dr. Williams Krohn, alienist who will testify for the state. The prosecution contends the boys were normal, healthy and well educated and expects to introduce evidence in support of that contention at the trial scheduled for August 4.

Prosecution alienists expressed the opinion that reports of the defense experts who made many lengthy examinations will have little effect at the trial. A plan to broadcast the proceedings of the trial is under consideration. A provision for newspapers and magazine correspondents, visiting jurists and lawyers who will be given admittance preference will greatly limit public attendance at the trial.

OIL COMPANIES ANNOUNCE SLASH

Reduction in Prices of Oil Announced for Mid-continent Field Today

(By the Associated Press)
BARTLESVILLE, July 17.—The Prairie Oil and Gas company this morning announced a reduction in the price of crude oil prices in the Midcontinent field of 25 to 50 cents a barrel for high grade oil and eliminated two grades, 36 to 39 degrees.

The announced reduction this morning brings the prices to the following figures: 30 to 32, $1.45; 33 and above $1.75; below 30, $1.25.

The two grades eliminated were 36 to 38.9. Former prices $2.39 to $2.25.

TULSA, July 17.—At the same time the Prairie Oil and Gas company put the lower prices for crude oil into effect today, it announced that it would take the full runs from wells of producers now connected with its pipelines, paying for half of it now and putting the rest into storage to be bought and paid for within the next year.

NEW YORK, July 17.—Reports that the Prairie Oil and Gas company has reduced crude oil 50 cents a barrel in the Midcontinent field brought a statement from Standard officials that the prorating in this field will end about August 15.

LEGION AUXILIARY HEAD IS TRAVELING OFFICIAL

(By the Associated Press)
PONCA CITY, July 17.—Mrs. J. P. Barrett, president of the Oklahoma department of the auxiliary to the American legion, is known as the "traveling president." Most of her time since her election to the office last summer has been spent in visiting units of the auxiliary and representing the women's organization at legion ceremonies and festivities.

Although Ponca City is Mrs. Barrett's home, friends insist that a local paper recently carried the following item: "The state president of the legion auxiliary is visiting in Ponca City for a few days." Mrs. Barrett has visited every unit of the auxiliary, some of them several times. Whenever a post needs "pepping up," Mrs. Barrett gets an "S.O.S." and the president arrives in a few days to lead a reorganization of the somnolent unit. The auxiliary president hasn't confined her traveling to Oklahoma. She has visited several of the near by states in the interest of the auxiliary, and accompanied Mrs. Jennie Stewart, of Bartlesville, national vice president to the all-southern meeting of auxiliary executives at Atlanta.

The demand for Mrs. Barrett as a speaker at legion functions and ceremonies has been great and the president during her year's tenure of office, has been called upon to make over 50 speeches. Mrs. Barrett will preside at the state convention of the auxiliary at Ada, July 28-29.

SULPHUR WATER FLOW MAY PAVE WAY FOR RESORT NOT OIL POOL IN ADA VICINITY

Before many months Ada will rival the greatest health resorts of the Southwest if the plans and ambitions of some of those interested materialize. This will result from the bringing in of a great sulphur water well at between 800 and 900 feet deep just south of Ada. This well is now making approximately 60,000 gallons of sulphur water a day, and the operators say it would be an easy matter to double the flow.

But this is not all. Five hundred feet deeper in the earth there is another water sand, carrying not black but white sulphur water. Between 1100 and 1200 feet there is a sand which may carry oil. The plan now is to run another casing, letting the black sulphur water already encountered come up between the casings. If the oil is found in paying quantities in the 1100-foot sand, it will be put into shape for both a sulphur well and an oil well. If the oil is not in paying quantities, the white sulphur water will be tapped, and there will be the unique thing of a well producing two giant streams of water, one black sulphur and the other white sulphur. It would be possible to produce both water and the oil also, but this will not likely be done.

J. W. Galloway, the largest owner of the property, is optimistic over the outlook for building one of the greatest things of a resort and health seeking nature in the Southwest. Others interested with him and none the less enthusiastic are Harry Hagar, Sam Becker, John Fitz and C. N. Russell.

Book Cases Being Installed in Ada Legion Post Rooms

With the completion and preparations to install 125 book cases, the Norman Howard post library will soon be a reality to crown the efforts of those who have been active in securing this valuable asset to the reading public.

The book cases will be installed in the legion club rooms where new furnishings have been arranged to welcome veterans who attend the Oklahoma Departmental convention here July 28.

The book cases will be arranged along the walls of the legion quarters and will not require much floor space from the spacious quarters occupied by the legionnaires.

With the installation of the book cases, members of the local legion post may securely boast of one of the best equipped legion clubrooms in the state.

Indian Tots to Have Primer

SITKA, Alaska.—Miss Zoe Porter, primary instructor here, is preparing a special primary text book for Indian children.

"The present accepted method of teaching," she said, "does not appeal to Indian children, who have never heard its topics before and do not understand; so I am compiling a book telling of their daily life, which they will understand and enjoy."

WESTERN DEMOCRATS TO WAGE WAR ON UNIT RULE

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, July 17.—Concerted action by members of the Democratic national committee from a number of western and southern states in an endeavor to make both the unit rule and two-thirds majority ineffective in future national conventions was advanced today to the stage of a formal interchange of views on the subject, the committee revealed.

A committee member from a western state had prepared a resolution on the subject for submission to the proposed meeting of the national committee in Clarksburg, W. Va., early in August.

Under this resolution the committee would declare both rules contrary to Democratic principles and recommend to various state bodies that all plans for the convention of 1928 and thereafter be calculated on the basis of a majority rule for the nominations and that every delegate free so far as binding party rules are concerned, to vote as they prefer.

Wife Gets Job, Husband Asks Damage Balm

Damages to the extent of $50,000 were alleged by Roscoe Arnold against Jim (J. W.) Smith, Laura Elam and the Oklahoma Portland Cement company in a suit filed in district court here yesterday.

In a lengthy petition, Arnold alleges that for the past twelve months a conspiracy has existed to cause his wife to desert him for the use and benefit of the defendants and that they conspired to cause the plaintiff's wife, Damalee Morgan Arnold, to desert him and serve them in that they promised to procure and hold for her a job with the Oklahoma Portland Cement company to continue for a period of 100 years if necessary, according to the statement of his wife as admitted in the presence of several witnesses.

The plaintiff represents himself as a poor man and unable to work from permanent ailments resultant from the World war and that he receives only $15 a month as government compensation.

The plaintiff, according to the petition considers himself damaged to the extent of $25,000 at the hands of Jim (J. W.) Smith and the Oklahoma Portland Cement plant, which he declares was used as a blind in ratifying and condoning the conspiracy had actually damaged him to the extent of $12,500 while an additional $12,500 was sought for punitive damages or smart money. Arnold was lenient with Laura Elam, stating in his petition that she was to be pitied rather than condemned. He seeks damages of $1 against her.

Arnold is his own counsel.

The following questions on Isaiah will be asked at Friday's school:

Who was Isaiah? What is a prophet? What did he say about the coming of Christ? Read Chap. 7, verse 14 and Chap. 9, verses 6 to 7. What did he say about the suffering of Christ. How many years was Isaiah written before Christ came into the world?

MERIDETH TELLS OF AD BENEFITS

Des Moines Man Declares Advertising Aid in Moulding U. S. Market

(By the Associated Press)
LONDON, July 17.—An address by E. T. Merideth, of Des Moines, Iowa, on "How Advertising Has Welded a United States Market," was this afternoon read before the convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, now in session in London.

Mr. Merideth, in the beginning, reviewed the barriers that exist in America to uniform buying customs throughout the 48 states. He referred to the geographical barriers found in mountain chains; the different climatic conditions in winter, for instance, between Florida on the south and the Canadian border on the north; the great distances north, east, south and west; the distribution of population, 32,000,000 people on farms, 45,000,000 in cities and 29,000,000 in towns, and the question of sectional, industrial and agricultural production.

"Nevertheless," Mr. Merideth declared, "the use of locally manufactured products made from locally produced raw materials is nationwide, and this has been accomplished by advertising throughout the nation, and the heads of these concerns will tell you that universal sales would not have been possible without this publicity."

To explain what national advertising meant in dollars and cents the speaker related the sums of money spent yearly by well-known firms dealing in automobiles, food-stuffs, clothing, etc. In conclusion he said:

"I hope I have made clear that in the first place nearly all of the natural conditions in the United States work against national distribution of products and that the line of least resistance, the easy way out as it were, would have developed in the United States not a single buying unit as we find it today. We would have had a number of local or sectional communities to a large extent sufficient unto themselves each going its own way with its own customs, living conditions, and the use of commodities necessary for its well-being. But far-seeing men saw what definite trade barriers only as trade problems to be solved in some way. To solve the problem, they, with almost no exception, turned to national advertising to establish national consumption of their products in a vast country. The wise and intelligent use of advertising in all its forms has succeeded in its purpose of welding the United States market."

Fighting in Brazil Continues Between Federals and Rebels

(By the Associated Press)

MILLIONS SAVED OIL FIRMS WITH COURT DECISION

District Judge Holds Private
Leasing of Oil Pumps
Not Restraint

NOTICE OF APPEAL

Conviction Would Mean Fines
Of Several Millions to
Texas Companies

(By the Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Tex., July 17.—Three Texas oil companies today escaped millions of dollars in fines by the decision of Judge George Calhoun of the Travis county district court in holding for the defendants in anti-trust cases brought by the state against the Texas Co., Gulf Refining Co. of Houston and the Producers Oil and Refining Co. of Fort Worth. The companies were charged with restraint of trade in leasing gasoline pumps with the provision that the retailers should use only the products of the leasing companies.

The companies have in effect hundreds of contracts providing for the leasing of pumps and other equipment. The equipment is leased, according to the charges of the attorney general, with the understanding that the retailers will use only the gasoline and oil sold by the company leasing the equipment.

Should the attorney general be finally upheld on appeal to higher courts, fines, it is estimated, may run as high as $10,000,000 to $15,000,000.

Judge Calhoun applied the "rule of reason" as laid down by the United States supreme court. He held that various contracts were separate agreements and to individual retailers and therefore not in restraint of trade. Similar agreements have been held by federal courts not to be in restraint of trade and the judge said his decision would follow these courts.

The state gave notice of appeal.

ELECTRIC STORM CAUSES DAMAGES

Damage Estimated at Two Hundred Thousand for
St. Louis

(By the Associated Press)
ST. LOUIS, July 17.—Damage estimated at approximately $200,000 was caused by a severe electric storm here early today which disabled 12,000 telephones and 20,000 electrical connections. The 54-mile wind also destroyed thousands of trees.

Eighteen trucks and 30 men were sent out by the city to remove the debris from the streets and sidewalks. All available men were set to work restoring electrical service. The telephone system was interrupted more than by any storm since 1896, officials said.

ST. LOUIS, July 17.—A severe electrical storm followed by heavy rains and a high wind struck St. Louis early today tearing down telephone and electric wires throwing parts of the city into darkness, and breaking windows in homes and office buildings.

Several persons were reported slightly injured by flying debris. Telephone and telegraph lines in Central and Southeastern Missouri were crippled and railroads and Western Union circuits were routed through Arkansas to points west of St. Louis.

Jefferson City reported several thousand dollars damage due to rains and wind.

Meager reports that a storm raged over portions of Central and Northeast Missouri could not be substantiated due to the cutting off of communication.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

PEACE I LEAVE WITH YOU, my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid.—John 14:27.

It is already certain that the battle ground in the coming presidential campaign will be in the West, especially the Middle West. With the South solid for the Democratic ticket and the Northeast as solid for the Republican nominees, it is plain that the West will cast the deciding vote and that the man who wins this will be the victor in the contest. Wilson's second election in 1916 proved that New York and New Jersey are not necessary to elect a president and that a combination of the West and the South is hard to beat.

The scrap between Oklahoma City and Tulsa over the question of which is first in population has been renewed and the battle will be waged fiercely until the 1930 census is taken. Until then the question will give the boosters of the two towns some things to argue about, anyway, and the loser in the next count can come back with the charge that the other town padded the rolls and that its own enumerators missed half the population.

The allies are now holding another session to discuss ways and means of putting the Dawes reparations plan into effect. This time it is realized that some decisive action must be taken if Europe is to recover her poise, hence there is a chance that the allies will bury some of their petty jealousies and do something. Germany has managed to get off thus far because the allies were too much divided in opinion to make a concerted move.

Considerable racket is being raised among senatorial aspirants about reckless expenditures in some of the campaigns. However, it is not likely that this will produce much effect for past experience has shown that the law limiting expenditures is a joke and that somebody always digs up more than the law permits. These sums do not show on the statements filed at the close of the campaign, but they come from somewhere.

We were somewhat discouraged by the long drawn out fight in the national convention, but the row appears to have subsided in short order and all factions have pledged support of the ticket which one and all admit was the best the convention could have selected. If the campaign is managed wisely, there is every reason to believe that John W. Davis will take possession of the White House next March.

The American around the world flyers have passed the half way mark on their long journey and may feel that they are on the home stretch. Thus far they have been fairly lucky and have no doubt displayed the best of judgment and it remains to be seen if this continues. Perhaps by this time they are in the vicinity of Constantinople and before many days will have spanned the continent of Europe.

The court has decided that Harry F. Sinclair must answer questions put to him by the oil committee regarding some phases of the Teapot Dome transactions. Naturally there are a number of things Harry does not like to talk about but the court says he must come up to the lick log.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, who recently figured as a dark horse for the presidential nomination, has been expelled from a fashionable golf club near Washington for appealing to his fists in settling an argument over a game in which he was playing. Thus it never rains but it pours.

Senator Owen has come out in favor of Wrightsman as his successor. This will doubtless add some strength to the Tulsa but unless two or three get out of the race it will not be enough to put him across.

In spite of all sorts of propaganda and opinions adverse to the use of coffee, statistics for 1923 indicate that more was sold in the United States than ever before. People naturally like a cup of the beverage to start a day and are sticking to it.

A real test of nerve is to tell a candidate who is a personal friend that you don't think he has a ghost of a chance of election.

An exchange remarks that at all events McAdoo did not lie about being happy over the result of the national convention.

The real test of character is the ability of a person to enjoy prosperity without taking on a swelled head or facing dire adversity without whining.

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

At times it seems as if all movie stars are "arrived" by winning beauty contests; or perchance by registering such emotional talent when they are granted an interview with a director that he falls on his knees before them begging them to accept a contract at the 5-figure salary. This impression is due, perhaps, to their voracious press agents.

But we know differently. Some are graduated from the Follies or speaking stage, and then there are those who grow up in the light of the klieg, and win their stardom by hard grinding work.

Among these latter is Lucile Rickson who, as a child, appeared in a number of the screen adaptations of Booth Tarkington's plays. Lucile is now more than a child, but after seeing her in "The Renegades" we wonder why her talents and wistful beauty, which requires no gorgeous clothes to set off, is not more used. Right here we say that she is our choice for the Peter Pan role.

Lucile is working for Fox now. She has a part in Larry Evans' story, "The Painted Lady," featuring George O'Brien and Dorothy Mackall. She also plays the lead opposite George Hackathorne in the screen version of "Checkers."

After all the stories we have heard about the wonders of the screen version of "Ben Hur" the cast, the director, the locale (Italy), etc., etc., it may be many moons before we behold its wonders. Director Charles Brabin is ill, George Walsh has failed to give satisfaction as "Ben Hur," costume makers have not delivered goods on time, and, in fact, everything has gone wrong.

The latest reports to reach us are that Fred Niblo and wife (Enid Bennett), Marshall Neilan and wife Blanche Sweet, and W. C. T. U., which will celebrate its Golden Jubilee during the conference, are all going to do when they arrive time alone can tell. Niblo and Neilan may direct the picture jointly; the ladies looking on. We did hear that Enid was to take Gertrude Olmstead's place as "Easter" but later that was denied, and they do say May McAvoy is being considered. Ramon would make a handsome "Ben," we opine.

Brother and sister, Helen and Anthony D'Algy have parts in Rudolph Valentino's "A Sainted Devil."

Marie Prevost (who by the way, is soon to be married to Kenneth Harlan, so we hear) is tired of filthy roles. She is afraid the public will think she is really the kind of girl who tries to take the other women's husbands away and she wants to play the part of the GOOD girl.

SOUTH WILL OPEN INSTITUTE TO STUDY POLITICAL QUESTIONS

GREENVILLE, S. C., July 17.—Designed to "promote the serious study of modern political problems, national and international," an institute of politics will be conducted at Furman University here from August 5 to August 16.

The school will be similar to the one inaugurated some years ago at Williams College, Williamstown, Mass. Professor James W. Garner of the University of Illinois, president of the American Political Science Association, will give a series of lectures, and it is planned also to have a number of economists and other scholars assist in the conduct of the institute. The last two days will be devoted to consideration of problems particularly affecting South Carolina.

U. S. ENFORCEMENT WILL HELP WORLD

Dry Leaders Declare U. S. Example Will Benefit World Plans

WINONA LAKE, Ind., July 17.—By thorough enforcement of prohibition the United States will influence Great Britain and other nations to dispossess the liquor traffic, according to Dr. F. Scott McBride of Westerville, O., general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America, who will open a three-day conference of the World League Against Alcoholism here tomorrow.

Dr. McBride said that the Anti-Saloon League eight years ago at its convention in Indianapolis went on record as favoring world prohibition and pledged its support to that cause. He is expected to voice an appeal for strict law enforcement and the election of local, state and national officials who will uphold the dry law.

"Thirty-five Thousand Miles of Prohibition" will be the subject of an address by the Rev. Gifford Gordon of Melbourne, Australia, field secretary of the World League Against Alcoholism, during the first day's session and other speakers will include Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel and legislative superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League; Bishop Thomas Nicholson, of the Methodist Episcopal church and president of the League, and Mrs. Elizabeth T. Stanley, president of the Indiana W. C. T. U., which will celebrate its Golden Jubilee during the conference.

William E. ("Pussyfoot") Johnson of Westerville; Miss Cora Frances Stoddard of Boston, secretary of the National W. C. T. U.; and Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington of Westerville, general secretary of the World League.

GRADUATES FROM HIGH SCHOOL AND COLLEGE

(By the Associated Press)
BOULDER, Colo., July 9.—Carl W. Connors, of Denver, recently received diplomas from high school and from the University of Colorado within 48 hours.

He had attended a Denver high school for a year when, in 1917, he enlisted in the navy. After service overseas, he resumed his education by enlisting as a special student at the University of Colorado. Arrangements were made for his credit hours at the university to apply toward his high school diploma. When he was graduated at the university, the high school also presented him with a sheepskin.

He had incurred physical disabilities during his naval service, and his educational courses were under the supervision of the United States Veterans' Bureau.

Here some recipes to which Mrs. Duvall calls the attention of her club members:

Scalloped Cabbage
Cook cabbage until tender in rapidly boiling water. Drain, place a layer of cabbage in a buttered baking dish, then a layer of white sauce and buttered bread crumbs. Another layer of cabbage, sauce and crumbs. Brown in oven for fifteen minutes. See vegetable cookery bulletin for white sauce recipe.

Spinach and Hard Cooked Eggs
Cook spinach until tender in boiling salt water. Drain, season with salt, pepper, butter and slice hard cooked eggs over the top.

Graham Muffins
One cup graham flour, one-fourth cup flour, one-fourth cup sugar, one tablespoon salt, one cup milk, one egg, one tablespoon melted butter, four teaspoon baking powder.
Method.—Mix and sift dry ingredients, add milk gradually, beaten egg and melted butter. Bake in a hot oven in buttered gem pans for 25 minutes.

Note: For whole wheat muffins, use all whole wheat flour in place of white and graham flour.

Potato Soup
Pare and slice potatoes, using one-half potato per person, add salt, a few slices of onion, cover with water and cook to a mush. Season with butter and add hot milk, enough to make a soup.

Tamale Pie
2 c. corn meal, 1 onion, 6 c. water, 2 c. tomatoes, 1 T. fat, 1 lb. hamburger steak or chopped meat. Make a mush by stirring the corn meal and salt into the boiling water.

Cook 45 minutes. Brown onion in fat, add chopped meat and cook until the red color disappears, if meat is raw. Cold chopped meat may be used. Season and add tomatoes. A sweet pepper is a good addition. Grease baking dish, put in layer of corn meal mush, add seasoned meat and cover with mush. Bake one-half hour.

Plain Rice Pudding
One quart sweet milk, four tablespoons rice, 4 tablespoon sugar, one cup seeded raisins.
Pour milk into a baking dish, add the sugar, wash rice and raisins. Place in a slow oven and cook slowly, stirring occasionally until thick. It will probably take two or three hours. Serve hot or cold with cream.

FRENCH INSIST LOAN
MUST BE UNDERWRITTEN

(By the Associated Press)
LONDON, July 17.—French members of the committee for the international conference dealing with the authority of the reparation commission, announced this afternoon their determination to insist on the taking by bankers of the proposed loan to Germany as a condition precedent to recommending that the Dawes plan is in effect.

The French members also expressed their conviction that the economic unity of Germany could not be restored until the proposed loan was underwritten.

The statement was made before the French officials entered the meeting of the committee which was empowered by the conference to deal with the authority of the reparations commission to respect to the action to be taken in the event of possible default by Germany in the execution of the Dawes scheme.

COLLEGE NOTES

Hugh Norris, head of the manual training department, reports exceptionally good work from his students during the summer session. In 1920 there were only eight students taking this work, while this summer there are 40 and the prospects look good for a great increase over this number at the beginning of the coming fall term. Mr. Norris is very optimistic over the progress of this department.

President Linscheid, who has been in Oklahoma City for several days, will remain there over Friday and attend the State Board of Education meeting.

There will be an assembly in the College auditorium tomorrow at 9 o'clock and a musical program will be featured. Mr. Newcombe states that there is some very good talent among the faculty and student body and those who have an opportunity to attend this assembly will profit much by doing so.

The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered Sunday by Rev. C. C. With from the First Presbyterian church of Ardmore. The services will be held at the Convention Hall on South Townsend.

Commencement exercises will be held in the College auditorium at 10 o'clock Thursday, July 24th.

Mr. Thompson took his Physics class to Byg yesterday afternoon at which place they made a careful study of the power plant. There are about 25 students in this class and they report a very profitable trip.

The faculty reports better work from the students this summer than any other previous year. Mr. Newcomb thinks, however, that this is mostly due to the unusual pleasant summer weather.

Prof. T. C. McCormick will attend the University of Iowa during the month of August.

The College Extension term will begin July 28th and close Friday, August 22nd. Class hours will be from 7 to 12 o'clock each day and courses are to be had in Education, Psychology, Mathematics, History, English and possibly Foreign Language. Students will be permitted to carry two subjects with total credit of four semester hours. Two recitations each day will be held for each course, and each course will recite five days each week. The College bosses are expecting a large number of students to attend during this term.

There will be an assembly Monday morning at which time the degree class of last year will give a short program and present a memorial to the college.

Martin Luther's Handwriting
Brings Top Price at Auction

(By the Associated Press)

BERLIN.—Martin Luther's handwriting commanded a higher price even than autographs by Goethe and Schiller at an auction of autographs here. A letter addressed to the Elector John of Saxony brought 9,100 marks.

The second highest price, 5,000 marks, was paid for a verified and authenticated letter by Goethe to Merck in the year 1774. Schiller's poem, "Dr. Alpenjäger" (The Alpine Hunter), came third with 3,000 marks.

Schopenhauer autographs brought only 500 marks. A number of Schiller and Wieland letters found no bidders. Six pages of Helms' poems were auctioned off at 670 marks.

Sale of Newspapers in U. S.
Average One in Each Home

(By the Associated Press)
LONDON, July 17.—Reviewing the development of the American newspaper before the convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World today, Louis Wiley, business manager of the New York Times, emphasized the importance of the part The Associated Press has played in that development.

"One agency in the United States which has contributed in large measure to the development of our strong newspaper press," he said, "and whose value in every way can scarcely be estimated, is The Associated Press, the great mutual news gathering and distributing organization. Its reports of daily happenings are impartial and cannot be influenced. The Associated Press takes issue with no side in any controversy—its purpose is merely to present the news."

After telling briefly of the diversity of its membership Mr. Wiley added: "The Associated Press is a part of the development of American newspapers. Its efficiency is wonderful."

America, said Mr. Wiley, owes to England a great debt of the beginnings of journalism. "We believe, however," he continued, "that we have not been entirely remiss in our contribution to both the business and professional of newspaper-making. For some time there has been a reciprocity of ideas between newspaper publishers on both sides of the Atlantic. We are both borrowers and lenders of ideas, testifying to the international cordiality existing between newspapers on all sides."

Mr. Wiley traced the development of American newspapers from the period prior to the American Revolution, when weekly gazettes were considered sufficient to carry the scattered and badly reported news, down to the present time, when, he said, there are in the United States 2,036 daily newspapers, including 426 morning and 1,610 evening editions. The American newspapers, he declared, now sell an average of 31,450,600 copies a day, which means one copy of a newspaper for every home in the United States.

Relative to the exchange of news between American and English newspapers, Mr. Wiley said: "Our newspapers publish quotations from your press to a greater extent than you do from our columns. A cabled report of British editorial opinion on important events is a regular part of The Associated Press news service."

Touching upon world affairs and the relation of newspapers to them, Mr. Wiley said: "We all recognize that the world stands faced today with international, political, social and economic problems of a graver nature than than it has ever faced before. The conduct of every nation, of every group in every nation, is being examined in the light of its bearing upon the settlement of our world problems. I make an earnest plea at this time that newspapers of all lands understand clearly their obligation toward the promotion of international good will and friendship; that they exercise sober judgment in the publication of news; that they temper discussion of international affairs with wise judgment and forbearance."

OCCUPATIONAL TAXES MUST BE PAID IN OKLAHOMA

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., July 17.—Although the federal government has eliminated many occupational and business taxes there remains a considerable number which must be paid by July 31, according to A. C. Alexander, collector of internal revenue here.

Brokers, except those dealing in produce or merchandise, are subject to two occupational taxes. One as a broker and a second as a member of an exchange or board of trade.

Pawnbrokers are liable for a tax of $100. Alexander said, as are riding academy proprietors. Brewers and distillers (of what is not explained) face an occupational tax of $1,000. Auto rental agencies are taxed $10 for cars up to seven passenger; $20 over that.

SHIPOWNERS CANNOT PREVENT
SAILORS FROM DESERTING

STOCKHOLM.—Passage by the United States congress of a bill making owners of vessels liable to a fine of $1,000 in the case of alien seamen deserting their ships in American waters, has brought a protest from Daniel Brostrom, former Swedish minister of marine, who declared that it was beyond the power of shipowners to prevent desertions.

Enforcement of the measure, Mr. Brostrom said, would prove ruinous, especially in the case of Swedish vessels, which already were losing money in the American trade because of the many restrictions under which they were placed.

ENGINES OVERHAULED

Over Two-thirds of Trip
Around World Now
Completed

(By the Associated Press)
CROYDON, Eng., July 17.—The American army world fliers hopped off this morning for Brough, near Hull, where their planes will rest for a week or 10 days while pontoons are being fitted in preparation for their jump to Orkney islands.

BROUGH, Eng., July 17.—The three American army world fliers arrived here from Croydon at 1:08 o'clock this afternoon. The aviators will be afforded every facility for a rapid overhauling of their machines including the necessary spare parts. After a survey has been made if it shows only moderate wear and tear, the work can be completed within three days.

Half a dozen planes were in the air when the Americans took off and started on their 150 mile hop. The same American and British officials who yesterday welcomed the fliers to England wished their guests a safe journey. The pilots of the around the world planes will remain at Brough about two days. They will return to London while their machines are being overhauled. The airmen lost no time in taking leave of London, as soon as they left the ground they headed for Brough without maneuvering over the field. The aviators had little trouble in starting although their engines are beginning to show signs of wear.

Lieut. Smith, the flight commander is confident everything will be in ship shape about August 1 for the last big jump.

ATTORNEY BRANDS STORY OF YOUTHS

Details of Trial May be Broadcasted; Press to be Represented

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, July 17.—Stories that Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, confessed kidnapers and slayers of Robert Franks, had planned to make Leopold's brother their victim has been characterized by the prosecution as without foundation. The prosecution contends that the defense is endeavoring to make the youths appear as diabolical as possible in order to prove the boys are crazy, according to Dr. Williams Krohn, alienist who will testify for the state. The prosecution contends the boys were normal, healthy and well educated and expected to introduce evidence in support of that contention at the trial scheduled for August 4.

Prosecution alienists expressed the opinion that reports of the defense experts who made many lengthy examinations will have little effect at the trial.

A plan to broadcast the proceedings of the trial is under consideration. A provision for newspapers and magazine correspondents, visiting jurists and lawyers who will be given admittance preference will greatly limit public attendance at the trial.

OIL COMPANIES ANNOUNCE SLASH

Reduction in Prices of Oil Announced for Mid-continent
Field Today

(By the Associated Press)

BARTLESVILLE, July 17.—The Prairie Oil and Gas company this morning announced a reduction in the price of crude oil prices in the Midcontinent field of 25 to 50 cents a barrel for high grade oil and eliminated two grades, 36 to 39 degrees.

The announced reduction this morning brings the prices to the following figures: 30 to 32, $1.45; 33 and above $1.75; below 30, $1.25.

The two grades eliminated were 35 to 38.9. Former prices $2.39 to $2.25.

TULSA, July 17.—At the same time the Prairie Oil and Gas company put the lower prices for crude oil into effect today, it announced that it would take the full run from wells of producers now connected with its pipelines, paying for half of it now and putting the rest into storage to be bought and paid for within the next year.

LEGION AUXILIARY HEAD IS TRAVELING OFFICIAL

(By the Associated Press)

PONCA CITY, July 17.—Mrs. J. P. Barrett, president of the Oklahoma department of the auxiliary to the American legion, is known as the "traveling president." Most of her time since her election to the office last summer has been spent in visiting units of the auxiliary and representing the women's organization at legion ceremonies and festivities.

Although Ponca City is Mrs. Barrett's home, friends insist that a local paper recently carried the following item: "The state president of the legion auxiliary is visiting in Ponca City for a few days."

Mrs. Barrett has visited every unit of the auxiliary, some of them several times. Whenever a post gets a "pepping up" Mrs. Barrett arrives in a few days to lead a reorganization of the somnolent unit. The auxiliary president hasn't confined her traveling to Oklahoma. She has visited several of the near by states in the interest of the auxiliary, and accompanied Mrs. Jennie Stewart, of Bartlesville, national vice president to the all-southern meeting of auxiliary executives at Atlanta.

The demand for Mrs. Barrett as a speaker at legion functions and ceremonials has been great and the president during her year's tenure of office, has been called upon to make over 50 speeches. Mrs. Barrett will preside at the state convention of the auxiliary at Ada, July 28-29.

This is a view of Santos harbor.

SULPHUR WATER FLOW MAY PAVE WAY FOR RESORT NOT OIL POOL IN ADA VICINITY

Before many months Ada will rival the greatest health resorts of the Southwest if the plans and ambitions of some of those interested materialize. This will result from the bringing in of a great sulphur water well at between 800 and 900 feet deep just south of Ada. This well is now making approximately 60,000 gallons of sulphur water a day, and the operators say it would be an easy matter to double the flow.

But this is not all. Five hundred feet deeper in the earth there is another water sand, carrying not black but white sulphur water. Between 1100 and 1200 feet there is a sand which may carry oil. The plan now is to run another casing, letting the black sulphur water already encountered come up between the casings. If the oil is found in paying quantities in the 1100-foot sand, it will be put into shape for both a sulphur well and an oil well. If the oil is not in paying quantities, the white sulphur water will be tapped, and there will be the unique thing of a well producing two giant streams of water, one black sulphur and the other white sulphur. It would be possible to produce both water and the oil also, but this will not likely be done.

J. W. Galloway, the largest owner of the property, is optimistic over the outlook for building one of the greatest things of a resort and health seeking nature in the Southwest. Others interested with him and none the less enthusiastic are Harry Hagar, Sam Becker, John Fitz and C. N. Russell.

Book Cases Being Installed in Ada Legion Post Rooms

With the completion and preparations to install 125 book cases, the Norman Howard post library will soon be a reality to crown the efforts of those who have been active in securing this valuable asset to the reading public.

The book cases will be installed in the legion club rooms where new furnishings have been arranged to welcome veterans who attend the Oklahoma Departmental convention here July 28.

The book cases will be arranged along the walls of the legion quarters and will not require much floor space from the spacious quarters occupied by the legionnaires.

With the installation of the book cases, members of the local legion post may securely boast of one of the best equipped legion clubrooms in the state.

MERCURY HITS HUNDRED MARK AT NOON TODAY

Resort Center may Result.

Subject to change, the partially matured plans, all depending upon the amount of oil found in the 1100 foot sand, call for a swimming pool of larger proportions than any other in this section of the state. Even the great west pool in Sulphur will be a piker compared to this one. Part of it at least will be covered. There will be places for kiddies to wade, sand piles, and pools deep enough for the most ambitious diver.

A great dance pavilion will be erected. Driveways will be laid out and improved. Cottages will be built, and the value of the medicinal waters advertised to all parts of the world.

An analysis of the water has not been reported. But it is said to be stronger in sulphur than that in the springs at Sulphur and carries many other minerals which are needed in building back to health broken bodies or keeping in the pink of condition those without ill.

Some Ada citizens believe the water will prove more valuable than an oil well. They can see visions of another Hot Springs or Mineral Wells, which added to the already thriving commercial and college city will put Ada on a par with the best cities in the state, in size as well as in importance.

If you have not seen the well, it will pay you to drive down. You go down the Byrds Mill road to the Pecan Grove crossing of the Santa Fe. You then turn back north and follow the road to the well. The odor of sulphur and the gurgle of the water will not permit you to miss the rest.

WESTERN DEMOCRATS TO WAGE WAR ON UNIT RULE

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, July 17.—Concerted action by members of the Democratic national committee from a number of western and southern states in an endeavor to make both the unit rule and two-thirds majority ineffective in future national conventions was advanced today to the stage of a formal interchange of views on the subject, the committee revealed.

A committee member from a western state had prepared a resolution on the subject for submission to the proposed meeting of the national committee in Clarksburg, W. Va., early in August.

Under this resolution, the committee would declare both rules contrary to "Democratic principles and recommend to various state bodies that all plans for the convention of 1928 and thereafter be calculated on the basis of a majority rule for the nominations and that every delegate free so far as binding party rules are concerned, to vote as they prefer.

Wife Gets Job, Husband Asks Damage Balm

Damages to the extent of $50,000 were alleged by Roscoe Arnold against Jim (J. W.) Smith, Laura Elam and the Oklahoma Portland Cement company in a suit filed in district court here yesterday.

In a lengthy petition, Arnold alleges that for the past twelve months a conspiracy has existed to cause his wife to desert him for the use and benefit of the defendants and that they conspired to cause the plaintiff's wife, Damalee Morgan Arnold, to desert him and serve them in that they promised to procure and hold for her a job with the Oklahoma Portland Cement company to continue for a period of 100 years if necessary, according to the statement of his wife as admitted in the presence of several witnesses.

The plaintiff represents himself as a poor man and unable to work from permanent ailments resultant from the World war and that he receives only $15 a month as government compensation.

The plaintiff, according to the petition considers himself damaged to the extent of $25,000 at the hands of Jim (J. W.) Smith and the Oklahoma Portland Cement plant, which he declares was used as a blind in ratifying and condoning the conspiracy had actually damaged him to the extent of $12,500. While an additional $12,500 was sought for punitive damages or smart money, Elam was lenient with Laura Elam, stating in his petition that she was to be pitied rather than condemned. He seeks damages of $1 against her.

Arnold is his own counsel.

MERIDETH TELLS OF AD BENEFITS

Des Moines Man Declares Advertising Aid in Moulding U. S. Market

(By the Associated Press)

LONDON, July 17.—An address by E. T. Merideth, of Des Moines, Iowa, on "How Advertising has Welded the United States Market," was this afternoon read before the convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, now in session in London.

Mr. Merideth, in the beginning, reviewed the barriers that exist in America to uniform buying customs throughout the 48 states. He referred to the geographical barriers found in mountain chains; the different climatic conditions in winter, for instance, between Florida on the south and the Canadian border on the north; the great distances north, east, south and west; the distribution of population, 32,000,000 people on farms, 45,000,000 in cities and 29,000,000 in towns, and the question of sectional, industrial and agricultural production.

"Nevertheless," Mr. Merideth declared, "the use of locally manufactured products made from locally produced raw materials is nationwide, and this has been accomplished by advertising throughout the nation, and the heads of these concerns will tell you that universal sales would not have been possible without this publicity."

To explain what national advertising meant in dollars and cents the speaker related the sums of money spent yearly by well-known firms dealing in automobiles, food-stuffs, clothing, etc. In conclusion he said:

"I hope I have made clear that in the first place nearly all of the natural conditions in the United States work against national distribution of products and that the line of least resistance, the easy way out as it were, would have developed in the United States not a single buying unit as we find it today.

We would have had a number of local or sectional communities to a large extent sufficient unto themselves each going its own way with its own customs, living conditions, and the use of commodities necessary for its well-being. But far-seeing men saw what might have been considered as definite trade barriers only as trade problems to be solved in some way. To solve the problem, they, with almost no exception, turned to national advertising to establish national consumption of their products in a vast country. The wise and intelligent use of advertising in all its forms has succeeded in its purpose of welding the United States market."

MILLIONS SAVED OIL FIRMS WITH COURT DECISION

District Judge Holds Private
Leasing of Oil Pumps
Not Restraint

NOTICE OF APPEAL

Conviction Would Mean Fines
Of Several Millions to
Texas Companies

(By the Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Tex., July 17.—Three Texas oil companies today escaped millions of dollars in fines by the decision of Judge George Calhoun of the Travis county district court in holding for the defendants in anti-trust cases brought by the state against the Texas Co., Gulf Refining Co. of Houston and the Producers Oil and Refining Co. of Fort Worth. The companies were charged with restraint of trade in leasing gasoline pumps with the provision that the retailers should use only the products of the leasing companies.

The companies have in effect hundreds of contracts providing for the leasing of pumps, and other equipment. The equipment is leased, according to the charges of the attorney general, with the understanding that the retailers will use only the gasoline and oil sold by the company leasing the equipment.

Should the attorney general be finally upheld on appeal to higher courts, fines, it is estimated, may run as high as $10,000,000 to $15,000,000.

Judge Calhoun applied the "rule of reason" as laid down by the United States supreme court. He held that various contracts were separate agreements and to individual retailers and therefore not in restraint of trade. Similar agreements have been held by federal courts not to be in restraint of trade and the judge said his decision would follow these courts.

The state gave notice of appeal.

The French members also expressed their conviction that the economic unity of Germany could not be restored until the proposed loan was underwritten.

COLLEGE NOTES

Hugh Norris, head of the manual training department, reports exceptionally good work from his students during the summer session. In 1923 there were only eight students taking this work, while this summer there are 40 and the prospects look good for a great increase over this number at the beginning of the coming fall term. Mr. Norris is very optimistic over the progress of this department.

President Linscheid, who has been in Oklahoma City for several days, will remain there over Friday and attend the State Board of Education meeting.

There will be an assembly in the College auditorium tomorrow at 9 o'clock and a musical program will be featured. Mr. Newcomb states that there is some very good talent among the faculty and student body and those who have an opportunity to attend this assembly will profit much by doing so.

The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered Sunday by Rev. C. C. Welch from the First Presbyterian church of Ardmore. The services will be held at the Convention Hall on South Townsend.

Commencement exercises will be held in the College auditorium at 10 o'clock Thursday, July 24th.

Mr. Thompson took his Physics class to Byrg yesterday afternoon at which place they made a careful study of the power plant. There are about 25 students in this class and they report a very profitable trip.

The faculty reports better work from the students this summer than any other previous year. Mr. Newcomb thinks, however, that this is mostly due to the unusual pleasant summer weather.

Prof. T. C. McCormick will attend the University of Iowa during the month of August.

The College Extension term will begin July 28th and close Friday, August 22nd. Class hours will be from 7 to 12 o'clock each day and courses are to be had in Education, Psychology, Mathematics, History, English and possibly Foreign Language. Students will be permitted to carry two subjects with total credit of four semester hours. Two recitations each day will be held for each course, and each course will require five days each week. The College bosses are expecting a large number of students to attend during this term.

There will be an assembly Monday morning at which time the degree class of last year will give a short program and present a memorial to the college.

FOR ENGINEERING
NAMING OF DAVIS

Jared J. Sanders, ex-governor of Louisiana, is being given credit for engineering the nomination of John W. Davis in the Democratic convention. Trusted with the floor guidance, he kept it secret for 100 ballots and while McAdoo and Smith were wearing themselves out, he arranged the turning of the tide.

OIL NEWS

(By the Associated Press)

TULSA, July 17.—The daily average crude oil production in the United States fell off 14,085 barrels during the week ending July 12, the Oil and Gas Journal says today. Oklahoma showed a gain of approximately 2,000 barrels; Arkansas and Louisiana a loss of about 2,000 barrels and California a drop of 9,000 barrels during the week.

The production for the week was 2,005,027 as compared with 2,019,095 for the week ending July 5. The July 5 yield was the largest of the year.

Tonkawa and Burbank fields reported slight gains in production. The Journal said; while the New Cromwell field continued to increase its production, reaching 40,280 barrels as compared with 37,875 for the week previous. The Bristow field production remained stationary.

Following is the table of estimated daily average production in the oil fields of the United States for the week ending July 5 and a comparison with the previous week, compiled by the Oil and Gas Journal:

(By the Associated Press)

LONDON, July 17.—Reviewing the development of the American newspaper before the convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World today, Louis Wiley, business manager of the New York Times, emphasized the importance of the part The Associated Press has played in that development.

"One agency in the United States which has contributed in large measure to the development of our strong newspaper press," he said, "and whose value in every way scarcely be estimated, is The Associated Press, the great mutual news gathering and distributing organization. Its reports of daily happenings are impartial and cannot be influenced. The Associated Press takes issue with no side in any controversy—its purpose is merely to present the news."

After telling briefly of the diversity of its membership Mr. Wiley added: "The Associated Press is a part of the development of American newspapers. Its efficiency is wonderful."

America, said Mr. Wiley, owes to England a great debt of the beginnings of journalism. "We believe, however," he continued, "that we have not been entirely remiss in our contribution to both the business and professional of newspaper making. For some time there has been a reciprocity of ideas between newspaper publishers on both sides of the Atlantic. We are both borrowers and lenders of ideas, testifying to the international cordiality existing between newspapers on all sides."

Mr. Wiley traced the development of American newspapers from the period prior to the American Revolution, when weekly gazettes were considered sufficient to carry the scattered and badly reported news, down to the present time, when, he said, there are in the United States 2,036 daily newspapers, including 426 morning and 1,610 evening editions. The American newspapers, he declared, now sell an average of 31,450,600 copies a day, which means one copy of a newspaper for every home in the United States.

Relative to the exchange of news between American and English newspapers, Mr. Wiley said: "Our newspapers publish quotations from your press to a greater extent than you do from our columns. A cable report of British editorial opinion on important events is a regular part of The Associated Press news service."

Touching upon world affairs and the relation of newspapers to them Mr. Wiley said: "We all recognize that the world stands faced today with international, political, social and economic problems of a greater nature than it has ever faced before. The conduct of every nation, of every group in every nation, is being examined in the light of its bearing upon the settlement of our world problems. I make an earnest plea at this time that newspapers of all lands understand clearly their obligation toward the promotion of international good will and friendship; that they exercise sober judgment in the publication of news that stands the test of truth; that they temper discussion of international affairs with wise judgment and forbearance."

BE PAID IN OKLAHOMA

OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA., July 17.—Although the federal government has eliminated many occupational and business taxes there remains a considerable number which must be paid by July 31, according to A. C. Alexander, collector of internal revenue here.

Brokers, except those dealing in produce or merchandise, are subject to two occupational taxes. One as a broker and a second as a member of an exchange or board of trade.

Farmers are liable for a tax of $100. Alexander said, as are riding academy proprietors. Brewers and distillers (of what is not excluded) face an occupational tax of $1,000. Auto rental agencies are taxed $10 for cars up to seven passengers; $20 over that.

SHIPOWNERS CANNOT PREVENT
SAILORS FROM DESERTING

STOCKHOLM.—Passage by the United States congress of a bill making owners of vessels liable to a fine of $1,000 in the case of alien seamen deserting their ships in American waters, has brought a protest from Daniel Brostrom, former Swedish minister of marine, who declared that it was beyond the power of shipowners to prevent desertions.

Enforcement of the measure, Mr. Brostrom said, would prove ruinous, especially in the case of Swedish vessels, which already were losing money in the American trade because of the many restrictions under which they were placed.

Firestone Leads on Speedway with Five Record Breakers

When the race driver selects his tires he does so realizing that his life and chances for success depend upon them. It is significant that all of the ten money winners in the Indianapolis race were Firestone shod. Firestone, using gum-dipping and other special processes, has developed tires to such a high degree of efficiency that at Indianapolis, May 30th, the following drivers broke the world's record for 500 miles over this brick track, making many rounds at over 100 miles per hour. Never before were tires put to such gruelling service, where it was necessary for every ounce of rubber and every fibre of fabric to work in perfect unison with every other part.

Earl Cooper	8:06:47.18	97.99
Jimmy Murphy	8:08:25.38	97.27
Harry Harts	8:10:44.28	95.55
Bennett Hill	8:11:07.00	96.48

Leadership in Everyday Service

Millions of motorists are profiting by the lengthened service of Firestone tires. Scores of unsolicited testimonials emphasize the long mileage Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords deliver—which builds leadership in service, safety and economy.

Leadership on Cabs, Buses and Trucks

The largest taxicab companies in the five largest cities in the United States use Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords exclusively. One fleet alone, the Yellow Cab Co. of Chicago, uses over one-half million tire miles per day.

Firestone for years has been first to develop tires and rims complete which would meet the heavy trucking loads, great strains and demand for traction. By originating and carrying forward the Ship by Truck movement, and establishing Ship by Truck bureaus in all large cities, Firestone helped to speed up highway transportation and reduce costs.

Balloon Tire Leadership

Firestone's latest contribution to motoring is the low air pressure or Balloon Tire. This, the original full-size Balloon, was made practical by the special Firestone Gum-Dipping process, insulating every fibre of each cord, adding great strength and stamina. Firestone has also simplified the application of full-size Balloon tires to your present car by designing a special unit consisting of tires, tubes, rims and spokes applied by any dealer at a very low cost.

Leadership Against British Rubber Restriction Act

Attacking the unsound and uneconomic character of the British Rubber Restriction Act limiting the exportation of rubber from the Far East, Firestone was the one large tire manufacturer to take up the cause for the car owner. Soon after the agitation was started for America to produce rubber under its own control, the cost of crude rubber was reduced and tire prices brought back to normal.

Dealer Leadership Through Tire Quality and Service

Through Firestone dealers you can obtain organized service and the soundest values on the market, whether you need a Ford 30 x 3 3/4 Fabric, a set of full-size Balloon Gum-Dipped Cords or a 10-inch truck tire.

The Highgrader

By WM. MacLEOD RAINES

Copyright by G. W. Dillingham Co.

After they had arrived at the mill Jack quietly took charge of the disposition of the party. Verinder and Joyce were sent up in the first bucket. When this was halfway up to the mine the cable stopped to let another couple enter a bucket. Joyce, fifty feet up in the air, waved her hand to those below.

"You next, India," ordered her cousin.

The young woman stepped into the bucket. "I'm afraid," she announced proudly.

"No need to be. Captain, your turn."

The eyes of the two men met. Ned Kilmenny guessed instantly that the other had arranged this so as to get a few minutes alone with Moya. He took a place beside his sister immediately.

The cable did not stop again until the second pair of passengers had reached the mine.

Moya, followed by Jack, stepped into the bucket, which began to rise steadily as it moved across the valley.

Kilmenny did not lose a minute.

"Why don't you let me see you alone? Why do you run away from me?" he demanded.

Little patches of color burned beneath the shadows of her eyes. A sound as of a distant surf began to beat in her ears.

"What nonsense! Why should I run from you?" she asked, meeting with difficulty the attack of his masterful gaze.

"Because you're afraid to let me tell you that I love you," he charged.

"Thought it was Joyce you . . . fancied," she retorted quietly, her pulse hammering.

"So it was. I fancied her. I love you. I'm asking you to marry me."

"You don't have to ask me to marry you because you exaggerate the service I did you."

"I ask you because I love you."

"Thank you very much for the compliment. Sorry I must decline." She did not dare look at him. Her eyes were fixed on the mill far below.

"Why must you—since you love me?"

The telltale pink stained her cheeks. "You take that for granted, do you?"

"It's true, I believe. How can I make love to you as other men do? Lady Parquhar won't let me see you alone—even if you were willing to give me a chance. In twosdays you are going out of my life. I must speak the truth . . . bluntly. I love you. It has been that way with me ever since you came into my life again, little Moya. But I was blind and didn't see it till . . . till I was alone in the mine with death."

"I . . . am sorry."

"That is not enough. I'm going to have the truth. You saved my life. What for? It is yours . . . if you will take it."

She looked straight at him. "I can't marry you."

"Why can't you? Can you say that you don't love me?"

In the full-charged silence that followed a stifling emotion raced through her blood. The excitement in her set a pulse beating in her throat. Woman-like, she evaded the issue.

"The cable has stopped. What has happened?"

REAL GIRL OF WEST HAS PART IN CAREY FILM

The "Zane Grey Girl!" This is the enviable title that has been conferred upon Claire Adams, playing opposite Harry Carey in Hunt Stromberg's production of "The Night Hawk," which comes to the American theatre for a two days run next Friday.

It is not merely because Miss Adams won her screen reputation as the heroine of Zane Grey stories. It is because she exactly typifies the spirit of the West, just as this writer does.

Miss Adams may truthfully be called an outdoor girl. Having spent the greater part of her young life in a saddle, there is no trick too difficult for her to attempt, for the sake of dramatic suspense. Her hairbreadth escapes have thrilled motion picture audiences all over the world.

Then, too, she is, in appearance, the Western type of beauty. A hint of the Spanish in her dark coloring, she has the frank clear eyes of those who gaze at far horizons. And her slender suppleness bespeaks the athlete.

This is all aside from Miss Adams' dramatic ability, which punctuates her intense physical action, in illuminating flashes. Naturally, it is her vivacity and spontaneity which first attracts the attention of audiences, but the critical will have time to notice, between her thrilling stunts, the poise and finesse of her interpretations.

Mr. Stromberg, who is personally supervising the production of "The Night Hawk," deems himself fortunate in procuring this able young actress for the role of Claire. Her work in this film is bound to bring her many new admirers.

"Nothing has happened. It has stopped because I arranged with the engineer at the hoist to have it stop. When I give the signal it will start again."

"But . . ."

He brushed aside her futile protest. "I'm going to have this out with you. Dare you tell me that you don't love me, Moya?"

He forced her to meet his eyes, and in that moment she felt weak and faint. The throb of passion beat tumultuously against her will.

"Please . . . be generous. What will they think? Let us start," she begged.

"They will think something is wrong with the machinery. But it doesn't matter in the least what they think. It's my last chance, and I'll not give it up. You've got to answer me."

The point where the bucket had stopped was a hundred feet above the ground below. She looked down and shuddered.

"It's so far down . . . please."

"Then don't look down. Look at me, Moya. It won't take you a moment to answer me."

"I have. I said I couldn't marry you."

"Tell me that you don't love me and I'll give the signal."

"I . . . don't."

"Look straight at me and say it."

She tried to look at him and repeat it, but her eyes betrayed the secret she was fighting to keep from him. The long lashes fell to the hot cheeks an instant too late.

His hand found hers. "My little Irish wild rose, all sweetness and thorns," he murmured.

Above the tumult of her heart she heard her voice say, as if it were that of a stranger, "It's no use . . . I can't . . . marry you."

"Because I'm a highgrader?"

She nodded.

"Do you think I'm worse than other men? Down in the bottom of your heart do you believe that?"

She smiled wistfully. "Other men are not . . . making love to me."

"Am I nothing but a thief to you?"

"I have told you that you are the man I . . . love. Isn't that a good deal?"

The desire of her, pure as a flame, swept through him. "It's the greatest thing that ever came into my life. Do you think I'm going to let it end there? I'm going to fight for our happiness. I'm going to beat down the things that come between us."

"You can't. It's too late," she cried wistfully.

"It's never too late for love so long as we're both alive."

"Not for love, but . . ."

"You've got to see this as I see it, sweetheart. I'm a man—primitive, if you like. I've done wild and evil things—plenty of them. What of that? I slough them off and trample them down. The heart of me is clean. Isn't it?"

"Yes."

To look at him was enough to clear away all doubt. He had the faults that go with full-blooded elemental life, but at bottom this virile American was sound.

"Well! Isn't that enough?"

The little movement of her hands toward him seemed to beg for pity. "Jack! I can't help it. Maybe I'm a little prig, but . . . mustn't we guide our lives by principle and not by impulse?"

"Do I guide mine by impulse?"

"Don't you?" She hurried on to contradict, or at least to modify, her reluctant charge. "Oh, I know you are a great influence here. You're known all over the state. Men follow you wherever you lead. Why should I criticize you—I, who have done nothing all my life but lean on others?"

"Go ahead. When I ask you to marry me I invite your criticism."

"I have to take little steps and to keep in well-worn paths. I can't make laws for myself as you do. Those that have been made may be wrong, but I must obey them."

"Why? Why should you? If they're wrong, fight against them."

"I can't argue with you . . . dear. But I know what I think right. I want to think as you do. Oh, you don't know how I long to throw my Puritan conscience overboard and just trust your judgment. I . . . admire you tremendously. But I can't give in."

The muscles stood out on his lean cheeks as he set his teeth. "You've got to, Moya. Our love has been fore-ordained. Do you think it is for nothing that we met again after all these years? You're mine the one woman in the world I want and am going to have."

She shook her head sadly. "No . . . no."

"Is it the money I have made high-grading? Is that what stands between us? If I were able to come to you without a dollar but, with clean hands—would you marry me then?"

He leaned toward her, eager, ardent, passionate, the color in his cheeks burning to a dull brick tint beneath the tan. Body and soul she gazed toward him. All her vital love of life, of things beautiful and good and true, fused in a crescendo of emotion.

"My dear . . . my dear, I'm only a girl—and I love you." Somehow her hands were buried in the strong grip of his. "But . . . I can't live on the profits of what I think is wrong. If it weren't for that . . . Jack, I'd marry you if you were a pauper—and thank God for the chance."

He faced her doggedly. "I'm not a pauper. I've fought for my share of the spoils. You've been brought up in a hothouse. Out in the world a man wins because he's strong. Do you think it's all then plying with me?"

By G—d, no! I've ridden night herd in a blizzard when the temperature decent poverty. I would love to feel that we were fighting . . . together. We both know you'll win in the end. Wouldn't it be fine to work out your success in partnership? Dear, I'd rather marry you while you're still a poor man."

"I've Mushed in Alaska and Fought Against Castro in Venezuela."

For a moment the vision of it tempted him, but he put the dream away. "No. It won't do. Of course I'm going to win out in the end, but it might take a dozen years to set me on Easy street. For a woman brought up as you have been poverty is hell."

"Then you think I'm only a doll," she flashed. "You want to put me back in that hothouse you mentioned. I'm just an ornament to dress up and look at and play with."

"I think you're a little timber-box," he said, smiling ruefully.

"Don't you see how it is with me, Jack? I've always craved life. I've wanted to take hold of it with both hands and without gloves. But they would never let me. I've got my chance now . . . If you really love me more than you do your pride and your money, I want to live close to the people—as you do."

"What did that suit cost you?" he asked abruptly.

"Don't remember. Twenty-five pounds, maybe. Why?"

"One hundred twenty dollars, say. And you need dozens of dresses in a season. I'll make a guess that it takes five thousand a year to clothe you. That is nearly twice as much as I'll earn altogether next year if I throw away my stake."

She waved his argument aside. "Stupid boy! I have dresses enough to last me for five years—if you'll let me be that poor man's wife. I can make him that poor man later and still be the best-dressed woman in camp."

From above came Captain Kilmenny's shout. "We telephoned down. The engineer has the trouble arranged."

The cable began to move.

"When shall I see you alone, Moya?" Jack demanded.

"I don't know."

"I'm going to see you. We've got to fight this out. I'll not let Lady Parquhar keep me from seeing you alone. It's serious business."

"Yes," she admitted. "I'll tell Lady Jim. But . . . there's no use in letting you think I'll give up. I can't."

"You've got to give up. That's all there is to it." His jaw was set like a vise.

The party above fell upon them as they lunched.

"Were you frightened, Moya?" exclaimed Joyce above the chorus of questions.

"Just for a moment," Moya did not look at Jack. "Mr. Kilmenny told me it would be all right."

Jack's eyes danced. "I told her we would work out of the difficulty if she would trust me."

Moya blushed. It happened that Captain Kilmenny was looking directly at her when his cousin spoke.

CHAPTER XVIII

Homing Hearts

Jack Kilmenny had not been brought up in the dry sunbaked West for nothing. The winds of the Rockies had entered into his character as well as into his physique. He was a willful man, with a good deal of granite in his make-up. A fighter from his youth, he did not find it easy to yield the point upon which he differed from Moya. There was in her so much of impulsive generosity that he had expected to overpower her scruples. But she stood like a rock planted in the soil.

It came to him as he walked home after a long fight with her that in his heart he did not want her to yield.

She was the Moya Dwight he loved because she would not compromise with her conviction. Yet, though he wanted her to stand firm, he hated the thought of giving way himself. It galled his pride that he must come to her without a penny, knowing that she had the means to keep them both modestly. Nor could he, without a pang, think of surrendering the twenty-eight thousand dollars he had fought for and won. He was no visionary. The value of money he understood perfectly. It stood for power, place, honor, the things that were worth having. Given what he had, Jack knew he could double it in Goldbanks within the year. There were legitimate opportunities for investment that were bound to make rich returns. But without a dollar he would be like Samson shorn of his locks.

All through the night he was joined in battle with himself, but when at early dawn he stood on the top of Son-of-a-Gun hill and faced a sky faintly pink with the warning of a coming sun his decision had been made.

On his way back he met Moya and Miss Seldon. Joyce pounced upon him with a grievance.

"You haven't told me yet how much you're going to give for the new hospital. Mr. Kilmenny, you know we're leaving tomorrow, and you'll have to decide at once. Be generous, please. You said yourself it was a good cause."

He nodded agreement. "The most worthy charity I know. I've often wondered why some Andrew Carnegie didn't set the fashion of endowing hospitals by wholesale. They ought to be free to all poor folks out of health. When a man is losing his wages and his family is scraping he ought not to be facing a thirty-dollar-a-week hospital charge. Yes, I'm for the new hospital, Miss Seldon."

"How strong are you for it?" Joyce asked, laughing at her newly acquired American slang. "Mr. Verinder has promised to give me two dollars for every one I can raise among my other friends. So don't be a—"

"A lightweight," supplied Moya with a smile. She could do a little in the native slang herself.

Jack went into his pocket for a checkbook and a fountain pen. He wrote for a few seconds, tore the check from the stub, and handed it to Joyce.

That young woman gasped.

"Why—you don't really mean—it's for twenty-eight thousand two hundred and fourteen dollars," she cried.

"And seventeen cents. Please don't forget that," he added.

"But—what on earth do you mean?" Jack was looking at Moya, and she at him with shining eyes in which joy swam.

"It's a little thank offering, Miss Seldon."

"Because you were rescued from the mine, I suppose. Still . . ."

"Because I'm engaged to be married to the best woman in the world," he corrected.

Joyce whirled upon Moya with instant divination. "You little wretch, and you never told me."

If Miss Dwight had not known it herself till this moment she gave no sign to that effect. "We're telling you now, dear," she explained.

"How long have you been engaged? Was it yesterday in the bucket?"

Jack laughed. "Nothing so romantic. We've been engaged a little less than half a minute. You got the first chance to wish Moya joy on having won so great a catch. She's marrying a pauper, you know."

"I think we're very rich," differed his sweetheart shyly.

Joyce looked from one to the other suspiciously. "I haven't a notion what either of you mean, but I know I'm going to hang on to this check, Mr. Millionaire Pauper."

Imps of mischief sparkled in the highgrader's eyes. "Don't forget that Verinder has to write one for twice as much."

Miss Seldon could not help laughing. "I'll see to that. He's not a welder, but . . . I wonder how he'll look when I tell him."

"You ought to tell him as soon as you can," Jack hinted boldly.

"Oh, ought I? Did you say you had been engaged less than a minute, Mr. Kilmenny? How much will you give me to go down now and tell him?"

"I've nothing left to give—except my gratitude."

"You're the first man who ever was so ungrateful as to tell me he would be grateful to have me leave him."

"I'm the first who ever proposed to another girl in your presence. The circumstance is unusual," he flung back gaily.

"I didn't hear you propose. All you did was to announce it," she replied snubly.

"That's true, too," admitted Kilmenny. "Well, I'm going to propose now if it isn't too late. You may stay if you like."

"Thanks, no," Joyce kissed her friend. "I hope you'll be very happy, dear. I . . . I believe you will."

Moya choked on her words. "I know I shall, Joy."

Miss Seldon looked at Jack with an expression in which embarrassment and audacity were blended. "I've always rather liked your pauper," she confided alone to Moya.

Her confidences had their limits. She omitted to mention what had just popped into her mind, that within the fortnight he had proposed to her too on the same spot.

Jack bowed with exaggerated deference when she shook hands with him. He was just now riding the seventh wave of happiness and felt friendly to the whole world.

"Thanks very much. You're a good sport, Joyce."

"Good gracious! What may that be? Some more of your American slang, I suppose." She broke away from persiflage to add seriously: "You're right about one thing, though. You've got the best girl in the world. Be good to her, Jack Kilmenny."

With that she turned and walked down the hill.

The other two walked up.

"I'm so proud of you, Jack, boy," whispered one of them.

He laughed happily. "I'm proud of myself. I've done the best day's work I ever did for myself when I won Moya Dwight."

"You know what I mean, Jack. What other man would have thrown away a small fortune—all he had—just for me?"

"I can name one other," suggested Kilmenny.

"Ned! But he's a saint."

"And I'm a sinner," her lover replied blithely.

"You're the sinner I love, then."

They had reached a clump of firs. Without knowing how it happened she found herself in his arms. There were both tears and laughter in her eyes as her lips turned slowly to meet his.

"Jack, boy, I'm just the happiest girl alive."

A mist-like veil of old rose hung above the mountain tops. Hand in hand they watched the rising sun pierce through it and flood the crevices of the hills with God's splendid canvases. It was a part of love's egotism that all this glory of the young day seemed an accompaniment to the song of joy that pulsed through them.

Later they came to earth and laughed the nonsense that is the highest wisdom of lovers. They built air castles and lived in them, seeing life through a poetic ambient as a long summer day in which they should ride and work and play together.

RAILROAD LEADER TELLS OF GROWTH

Advertising Plays Part in Canadian Pacific Road Development

LONDON, July 17. —Indicating how advertising had fostered the growth of Canada, E. W. Beatty, head of the Canadian Pacific Railway company, told the convention of Associated Advertising Clubs of the World today, that since 1881 his road had spent $67,000,000 on colonization in contrast to $35,000,000 expended by the Canadian government.

These figures, he explained, included more than what might strictly be termed advertising, the colonization efforts having been directed at rather different types of settlers. The Canadian Pacific was particularly interested in getting settlers for the lands it had to sell, he said, while the Canadian government directed its efforts more to securing settlers for its free homesteads of 16 acres each.

Tracing the part played by advertising in the building of Canada, which began with the Jesuit missionaries in the days of the French dominion, Mr. Beatty said it was not until the Canadian Pacific appeared on the scene that an aggressive, consistent and comprehensive advertising campaign for the colonization of Canada was planned and directed from Canada itself. In the last 40 years a campaign of invitation and welcome had been conducted, he asserted, in which the Canadian Pacific gave the example and set the pace.

Canada's snow and hard winters are among its greatest assets, Mr. Beatty declared. "Without that winter we should not be able to grow the hard wheat on which so much of the prosperity of the Canadian west depends, and which every miller in the United States desires for his choicest flour. Without that winter we should not have the fur-bearing animals and the fur trade, which for 300 years has been one of Canada's basic industries. Without that winter we could not haul so economically as we do the products of our forests to our lumber and pulp mills. And last but not least, without that winter, sturdy manhood have the virile, sturdy manhood which the whole world, particularly since the achievements of the Canadian army in the great war, has come to identify with the Canadian race. So long as Canada has its winter, so long will Canadians be ready and able to bear the white man's burden."

The most important thing in any selling campaign is that the merchandise offered shall be worth selling, the speaker continued. "Therein lies the strength of Canada's position. Canada has had the confidence to advertise and to keep on advertising, because she knows that she has something worth while to offer. She has good agricultural land with markets for what that land can produce; she has almost unlimited natural resources in mines and forests, she has ample power at moderate cost for industrial purposes."

YEARS OF SERVICE ARE REWARDED BY SUCCESS

EDMONTON, Alta., July 17. —Thirty years ago a young French priest, fresh from his native Brittany, left the little village of Edmontan in a rough wagon and penetrated into the north to minister to the Indians and the few white settlers of the great frontier.

Recently a venerable French priest, bearded and tanned, and marked with years of patient effort in a rough and uncultivated territory reached Edmonton on his way to his native Brittany. Father Vacher, beloved and respected throughout the northland, is taking his first vacation.

Through all these years Father Vacher has preached and taught and lived religion for the benefit of his people of the north. Not always has he been in the one place, but several of the Catholic missions of that great region, have enjoyed the benefit of his words of counsel and benediction.

Now he will return to Brittany, breathe once more the air of his childhood home and revisit the scenes in which as a young man he dreamed of the life of service he has lived.

He hopes to return after a year and again take up his duties in the north. "But next time," says Father Vacher, "I shall return to my people, not to leave them again in this life."

poses; she has respect for law and order, and she had a climate in which white men can make homes. With such assets, Canada has no reason for hiding her light under a bushel. She has had ample justification for advertising her advantages, and that advertising has been of substantial benefit to the Empire to which she is proud to belong."

Canada's greatest asset, Mr. Beatty said in conclusion, was the courageous spirit of the people. "A spirit which breathes an unquenchable faith in the country's future. That spirit is possessed by Canadians in the highest degree, and that is why they look forward to their future with confidence and unimpaired morale."

Locust Swarms Throw Horses.
at South African Race Meet

JOHANNESBURG.—Locusts have appeared in such swarms in various parts of the dominion that they have interfered with the outdoor life, which features the spring months here. The races at Springs, the Ascot of South Africa, were disrupted when a huge cloud of locusts descended on the course and stands while the races were in progress.

Panic seized the fashionable crowd and with the bookmakers and attendants they ran for shelter. The horses were enveloped in locusts as they ran and could not be identified. When the animals stopped on a living carpet, many of them slipped and fell heavily, injuring their jockeys.

It is an old custom in Derbyshire, England, to decorate beehives just before a wedding.

SPECIAL FRISCO TRAIN TO TULSA

Excursion Special to Leave Ada for Oil Center Sunday Morning

Ada people who wish to take an excursion in the vicinity of Tulsa next Sunday may do so at a very moderate fee under plans of the Frisco which calls for a special train leaving Ada at 6 a. m. and leaving Tulsa for the return trip at 11 o'clock Sunday night.

The purpose of the excursion train, which will be run in surplus of the regular scheduled trains, is to create an interest in the north oil field district of Oklahoma and to give people an opportunity to make a tour of this district at a nominal expense.

According to Agent L. McNair the round trip fare will only be $2.50, which is less than a third of the regular fare to Tulsa.

The Frisco is planning on advertising the special train along the system and an effort will be made to bring a holiday crowd of some 2,000 persons to Tulsa for one day.

The road is taking this method of advertising Tulsa and serving this section. Special equipment is being brought here to handle this train, which will be the longest passenger train handled in this section of the country it is said.

Cars will be set out Saturday at Crowell, Okmah, Ada, Holden, Oklahoma, Bryant, Henryetta, Okmulgee, Bixby, Muskogee and other points. These cars will be picked up by the special which will leave Ada at 6 o'clock Sunday morning. The train will reach Tulsa at 10 o'clock Sunday morning and will not leave the city on the return trip until 11 o'clock at night.

Plans Well Advertised

The management of Tulsa travelers and resorts near Tulsa have been co-operating with the Frisco in advertising and arranging for this special train. Pamphlets will be distributed in all towns along the Frisco system to advertise the pleasure resorts and points of interest around Tulsa.

Other excursion trips will be arranged for in other directions from Tulsa.

Plans Expelling Christians

HERMIT—Parties of Christians are said to be expelled from Turkey. Since February 15, 2,568 Christians have arrived in Syria from the district of Urfa, all of whom have been gradually growing since 1919, and today the total number is estimated to be about 110,000.

Francis

Tom Grove, cashier of the Francis National bank, is in Ada this week assisting in some work in this city and Floyd Chism is here working in Mr. Grove's place while he is gone.

There has been nothing on the blotter of the Police court for the last two weeks which speaks well for the citizenship of Francis.

Improvements in town are still holding up good for the summer months and will be better when fall comes.

The school boys are at work cleaning the campus, getting the inside of the building ready, erecting a coal house and otherwise getting ready for the fall term of school.

The water supply of the town is still holding up and all the citizens are getting all the water they need. It is not believed by the water people that there will be any scarcity of water this season.

We are needing street work more than any thing else and it is hoped that we will get the work in the near future.

The oil people out on section 19 are still at work and it is reported that they are down about 2400 feet. Every body here is very much interested in the well and it is the center of thought among the people.

Business in town is still holding up at about normal and is very good for the summer season.

Mr. Wright informs us that he is making good in his new garage on Main street and is expecting business to get better in the future.

If these trips prove a success during the summer, it considered almost certain that special Saturday trade excursions to and from Tulsa will be inaugurated as soon as possible.

At a meeting of theatre and park managers with members of the Retail Merchants association, Jim Clark, with the Majestic theater, was named chairman of the committee to arrange for the excursion trips.

A record attendance at the Sixth Annual Convention of the American Legion at Ada, July 27, 28 and 29 is no longer a matter of speculation, according to the convention city hosts. It is an assured fact. Within the past two weeks reservations have been piling in upon the housing committee until Ada is now assured of entertaining between 2,500 and 3,000 Service Comrades the last week in July.

Equally enthusiastic are the reports received by the members of the American Legion Auxiliary of Ada who will be hostesses to the Fourth Annual Convention of the Oklahoma Department of the Auxiliary. All members of the Auxiliary will be entertained in private homes during the three days assembly.

All of the hotels of the city, according to the Ada Legionnaires, have been reserved for the Legion visitors, and in addition, the large armory used by the two units of the National Guard at Ada, has also been fitted up with beds and cots to accommodate the service men.

"Every Buddy a Billet" is the slogan of the hosts—and the billets are promised to be the most comfortable ever furnished in any "Leave Army."

From the time the Legionnaire visitors arrive at Ada until their departure every detail has been perfected for entertainment. Pop, snap and spice are the three adjectives used by the entertainment committee in charge, and the Ada reputation for hospitality is staked upon showing Buddy the most joyful three days spent since the Armistice commenced untravelling of Veterans service.

Many Legionnaires have signified their intention of arriving at the Convention Sector not later than Sunday afternoon. Band Concerts, impromptu receptions, automobile tours and "swims" are promised for the early "Birds." In addition convention caucuses will be held on Sunday afternoon and evening.

The large Legion Memorial hall, seating approximately 2,500 people, will be the headquarters of the convention during the three day convalesce. The annual election of officers will be held the second day of the convention.

The American commission from national headquarters of the American Legion announces that a sufficient number of state boards of education have considered favorably the commissions plan to add the study of flag etiquette to the curriculum of public schools, to assure the plan being adopted nationally within the coming year.

At this date there are twenty-four states signifying their intention of incorporating flag etiquette in the public school curriculum.

Relief for the victims of the recent tornado disaster at Lorain, Ohio, is being extended by the Ohio Department of the American Legion working through the agency of the local post.

Legionnaires of Lorain and Elyria were active immediately after the disaster in searching for bodies, salvaging valuable and relieving distress wherever it was found.

A bulletin has been issued from the Ohio Department Headquarters of the Legion requesting that all Legion posts and Auxiliary units in the state contribute money, clothing, provisions and to arouse the public to the relief of Lorain.

Rev. Marcus M. Vaughn

Among the thousands of well-known men and women praising the celebrated new medicine, Karnak, is Rev. Dr. Marcus M. Vaughn, one of the most widely-known and universally respected ministers of Texas. "For fifteen years," says Dr. Vaughn, who resides at 5331 Larkia St., Houston, "I suffered from a chronic stomach trouble and nervousness that finally compelled my retirement from the ministry. Frequently I had to remain in bed all day from sheer weakness. The best medicines and treatments failed to help me until I began taking Karnak. Two bottles of the medicine has completely overcome my troubles and I am again like my old self."

Karnak is sold exclusively in Ada by Gwin & Mays and in Stonewall by Chas. Burnett.

Do You Know How to Eat?

By DOLLY DALRYMPLE

Nearly everybody knows how to get food into his system, but mightily few persons in this age of taut nerves and eternal rush let eating play its rightful part in their lives. They do not know how.

One reason that eating is usually such a bit of a mess affair is that there are few teachers of the art of getting the most enjoyment of health from the process.

Need to Teach Eaters
It is wasteful to teach thousands how to cook and to neglect to teach anyone how to eat. It is as though artists continued to paint pictures there was no one to enjoy them.

joy, or novelists to write books that no one ever reads. It is true there are some artists in this predicament, and a good many novelists, but there are far too many cooks in the same fix. It makes my blood run cold to think of the good food that is gulped and wasted every day!

The quick lunch addict! How the thought of him makes me shiver, whether it is a "he" who snatches his soggy sandwich and piece of monumental pie in a restaurant or a "she" who insults her body by a "pick-up" lunch at home because she thinks it saves time and trouble. How I would love to lead uncounted multitudes of these persons into the Paradise of meals that begin with delicious appetizers, such as green olives, sing their way through soups or bouillions, proceed firmly through a tasty piece of resistance and its accompaniments, chant heartily over green salads with pure olive oil and vinegar dressings, and come to a graceful and leisurely close in a wholesome dessert and dripped coffee.

Cooks Get Discouraged
How many meals are ordered without any reference to their appeal to the appetite? They consist of food and nothing more. There is no fragrance, no flavor, no arrangement to interest the eye, no balance to appeal to the sense of order.

Consider the average American when a meal that pretends to be a meal is set before him, at some banquet of Kiwanians or annual dinner of the Daughters of the Western Comet. He finds a fruit agglomeration on his plate, which he eats because he has met all the fruits before. This is removed and a dish of celery and green olives becomes visible on the other side of the rolls. He munches a roll, or rolls, until the soup arrives (and he either gobbles his soup or waves it aside). The olives he gazes at with a dull and fishy eye.

The Appetizing Green Olive

The expert eater would tell him one reason his eye is dull and fishy is because he does not know anything about green olives and the kindred foods that help them to make mealtime festivals of health. The skilled diner will welcome the green olive as the Honey bee welcomes the spring. It is his initial guarantee of a good meal and the good digestion of it. He takes the olive between his fingers and rests his eye on the peaceful green of it. He lifts it to his mouth and dwells lovingly over the first bite. The slightly tart, slightly nutty flavor! The lingering saltiness of the immortal fruit! He can feel the saliva that a meal requires secreting itself at a rapid rate. He knows that the gastric juices and the pancreatic ferments down there inside are about to be given, through the olive, the tonic that prepares them for the tasks ahead of them. He takes another and then several other bites, chewing the luscious Spanish morsel until the last atom of its flavor departs.

Delicious Soup
Then, and only then, does he proceed to his soup. All the apparatus of taste and digestion is in full swing, and he can linger over the delicious liquid (we'll hope the chef has made it delicious) that insinuates the first consignment of intended nourishment into his body. The olives have nourishment, of course, but they were not eaten primarily for that reason.

When the roast or fowl arrives with its accompaniment of vegetables he will eat slowly and appreciatively.

Next comes the salad. The average eater will regard this apathetically. The expert awaits its coming with keen interest.

Salubrious Salads

Salads have made the fame of kings and chefs, and some of the names of French monarchs are recalled for the salad dressings they are associated with more than for any achievements of government.

Epicures dote on salads. Doctors refer to them with professional favor. They are tasty and healthful at once. Even modern research, in discovering the vitamins, found most of them in green salads. The dressings of the same have been found to be the best stimulant of intestinal digestion there is, for pure, olive oil and pure vinegar make the base of most of them.

Beyond the salad everyone conducts himself according to individual taste, though the taste of the expert eater, being developed and discriminating, must necessarily receive more from a good dessert than does his grosser neighbor's.

You can pick out those eaters who are instructed and skilled in any group by choosing those with the keenest eyes, the clearest skins, the most animated manner, and the quickest and most straight-thinking brains. Judicious eating is a foe to idleness.

PEACH CROP MOVING FROM OKLAHOMA NOW

(By the Associated Press)

GUTHRIE, Okla., July 17.—Three hundred and fifty cars of Alberta peaches will be shipped from Guthrie and vicinity this month, according to E. R. Thompson, county agent.

The peach crop has been unusually large and the fruit is of high class. Every car will be examined and stamped by a state and federal inspector before shipment, Thompson said.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., July 16.—Approximately 600 cars of Elberta peaches will be marketed from Oklahoma this season, according to Ed Dustin, secretary of the state marketing commission. The peach movement will start this week, Dustin said.

More than half of the 600 cars will go from Logan county and that district. Fifty cars will be moved from Wynnewood and 50 from Quinala; 32 from Mulhall; 30 from Muskogee and 30 from Stillwater. Twenty-two will be shipped from Tablequah; 20 from Lexington and several small shipments of a few cars from many other points.

Housewives are encouraged to can peaches. In a statement advising wholesale canning Dustin said:

"As sugar is comparatively cheap and the supply of canned peaches low, it will be wise for housewives to take advantage of the low price for the extra fine peaches that will be too ripe for shipment," Dustin said. "Every family should lay in a two years supply, the last of this month, while conditions are favorable."

The purpose of the cattle and horse brand has been modified with passing years, according to Noah Newbanks, who for 21 years was a member of the commission. During the open range days, it was relied upon to provide evidence in case of rustling, and to furnish identification during the twice-a-year roundup events. The latter object passed, he points out, with the end of open ranges, and the marks now have chief value in detecting thefts and in guarding the identity of stock in transit to market.

The list of brands on the state record books makes up a non-descript collection. They are listed under letters, figures, box designs, crosses, triangle, diamonds, circles, arcs and characters. The last group has almost every imaginable variation including fish designs, bells, stars, acorns and many others that defy description by other than the original design.

ADVERTISING MAKES FREE PRESS, CLAIM

Advertising Results Make Free Press Possible, Claims Peace Advocate

LONDON, July 17.—A free press and international peace as a result of advertising were urged today by Edward A. Filene of Boston, prominent peace advocate, in a address delivered before the international advertising convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World.

Newspapers everywhere, the speaker said, free from the control of "special interests" will be responsible for the peace of the world. Big advertising, it was contended, "tends to make the press independent and thus enable the editor to 'go straight' in his search for facts and truth."

The cost of publishing the modern newspaper, Mr. Filene explained, far exceeds the returns from circulation, or the price paid by readers and subscribers. Six million dollars a year—more than a million pounds—has become a very ordinary figure, he said, for "procuring a great daily in our large cities."

"It is clear, therefore, he continued, 'that the press is under an ever-increasing necessity of meeting competition by enormously expanding the source of its revenues.' Additional revenues are obtained by a 'free press,' he explained, principally by means of advertising. Those newspapers that are not 'free' he declared, may obtain their additional revenues from 'special interests.' 'In the long run,' he warned, 'there is no single factor more threatening to world peace than a press controlled by 'special interests.'"

Big advertising, the speaker said, might not always overcome the influence of "special interests" on the press; and on occasions and over short periods of time, big advertising itself might attempt to control newspaper policy.

"But in the long run big ads can be paid for only by big sales," it was pointed out. "And big sales will not come unless readers have confidence that the paper can be relied on for its news and editorials."

"Big advertising is not an economic waste," the speaker continued. "It is a social service. It is more than that. It is the basis of a press that is financially free. It is the fundamental factor upon which depends the ability of the press to furnish facts disinterestedly, and thus promote the outlook for world peace."

The dependence of the press on advertising, it was stated, and the consequent dependence of world peace, insofar as it is affected by the modern press, happen both to be in accord with the basic changes now under way in production and distribution.

"Mass production is well under way in most countries of the world," declared Mr. Filene. "Trusts, both vertical and horizontal, which exist and are coming to the front in ever increasing numbers, are in line with the best interests of social progress—even though at this pioneer stage they have all the faults of pioneering." The speaker explained that mass production and mass distribution were inevitably dependent on mass selling and that the entire program was dependent on big advertising.

The speaker pointed out that advertising in the United States in 1923 reached the "amazing figure of $628,000,000. Advertising in the daily press has grown by leaps and bounds—is growing—will grow at an increasing pace as we go on to meet the future."

LOVING NO PICNIC BEFORE A CROWD

"Making love in broad daylight on a narrow road suddenly cluttered with automobiles has its drawbacks," says Alan Forrest, "especially when the drivers are in a hurry."

Director Harry Beaumont, Viola Dana, Alan Forrest and cameraman John Arnold went out on location to an unfrequented road, wide enough for but one automobile, to film scenes for Miss Dana's latest Metro starring vehicle, "Don't Doubt Your Husband," which is at the McSwain theatre today.

Miss Dana as the little bride and Alan Forrest as the fearless newlyweds were to be filmed in a roadster. While cameraman Arnold set up his apparatus on the roadside and focussed on the couple, Director Beaumont rehearsed the scene several times. Convinced that it was perfect he instructed Mr. Arnold to start filming, but the sun disappeared behind a dark cloud and production was suspended for a time.

German Farmer Quits Crops to Raise Fish and Fowls

(By the Associated Press)

LUDWIGSLUST, Germany.—The crops of E. Zielsen, an extensive land owner near here, did not pay very well last year, so Zielsen flooded the fields in the fall and this year has been raising fish and doing so well financially that he is planning to extend his home made lakes.

Zielsen has about 1,000 lowland acres under water. German carp have done particularly well in the flooded fields, and this year Zielsen expects to gather about 80 tons of fish.

On some of the higher ground of his estate Zielsen has a large tract devoted to the raising of the blue fox.

STRANGE DESIGNS USED IN BRANDING CATTLE

(By the Associated Press)

PIERRE, S. D., July 17.—Days when great herds of range cattle roamed over a 100 square miles of wild prairie west of the Missouri River in South Dakota, are still reflected in a list of more than 7,410 horse and cattle brands in custody of the state commission on brands and marks. The list continues to grow at a rate of ten to 15 a month.

The roll-call of range trade marks was much longer prior to 1921, when by legislative acts all brands and marks were abolished and a new series started. The earlier roster, dating back to 1896, contained 12,081 distinct brands.
